OUR WAY

About This Sermon Series

Why do you come to church? Most of us answer that question differently, although there are usually some common threads. At Royal Oak First, one thread is often about experiencing the grace and love of God before anything else. In this series, we want to explore “Our Way,” we want to give vocabulary and history to why we teach that grace goes first. We want to explore what it means to be loved before anything is expected of us, and to see how Jesus is the divine example of love and grace. We want to remember that communion and baptism are means of experiencing grace so that we can be God’s love made public. And we want to learn together what it means to stay, even when staying is hard.

OCTOBER IS PASTOR APPRECIATION MONTH FROM THE PERSONNEL TEAM:

This month, we pause with grateful hearts to honor our pastors. Thank you for faithfully answering God's call, leading us with wisdom and compassion, and serving with love and faith. Through your prayers, teaching, encouragement, and example, you help us grow closer to Christ and stronger together as a church family. You touch our lives in ways both seen and unseen, and we are deeply grateful for all that you do. May the Lord continue to renew your strength, guide your steps, and bless you always. We love and appreciate you! Please take a moment to write a note, make a call, send an email or give a hug to all our pastors. We are so blessed to have them in our lives and church.

TRUNK-OR-TREAT WITH KIDS EMPOWERED

Join the Missions Team at a Trunk-or-Treat event hosted by Kids Empowered

Saturday, October 24, 4:30-6:30 p.m.

The event takes place in the parking lot of an Auburn Hills hotel. These families do not have a neighborhood to attend traditional trick-or-treating, so this event is especially meaningful. We would love your help to make this event special! Please scan the QR code to sign up.

Consecration Sunday is Coming

Over the next few weeks, you'll be hearing more about Consecration Sunday, November 8. We're sharing this with you now because we want everyone to have time to think and pray about what God may be calling you to give in support of the life and ministry of Royal Oak First in the coming year.

At its heart, Consecration Sunday is about more than creating a church budget or paying the bills. It's an invitation to think about generosity as part of our faith—a spiritual practice and a response to all that God has given us.

This year, our Compass Team has chosen the Consecration Sunday Stewardship Program to help guide us through that conversation. The program encourages each of us to prayerfully consider our giving and to ask a simple question: "What percentage of my income is God nudging me to give?"

There is no one right answer to that question. Giving is personal, and each of us comes to it from a different place. What matters is taking time to consider it intentionally and prayerfully, and to see our generosity as one of the ways we live out our faith and participate in the work God is doing through our church.

On Consecration Sunday, November 8, we will have an opportunity during both worship services to make our financial commitments to Royal Oak First for the coming year. Our guest leader, Pastor Brad Bartelmay, will share a brief message of inspiration and guidance before we make our commitments privately as an act of worship.

You'll hear more from the Compass and Consecration Sunday teams in the weeks ahead as we prepare for this special Sunday together. If you have questions, please contact Rick Buxton, Consecration Sunday Chair.

We hope you'll join us on November 8 and be part of this important moment in the life of Royal Oak First.

Grace and Peace,

Chris Mikell, Compass Team Chair

LETTER FROM OUR PASTOR

Beloved Community,

Last year when I took my Methodist history class, I was given the opportunity to read 50 of John Wesley's best known sermons. Despite the antiquated language, two things stood out to me. The first was his grace first theology. Wesley always wanted his audience to know that God's love and grace went before anything else, and that it was love and grace that motivated mercy and care for the world. The second thing that stood out to me was what he called "means of grace." These were the practices that he would encourage people to use in order to remember that God's grace goes first. Two of those practices are also called sacraments.

Maybe, like me, you didn't grow up in a church system that emphasized the sacraments, or maybe you grew up in a church system that weaponized them, and Wesley was aware of what he deemed both types of misuse. Instead, Wesley wanted us to look at communion and baptism as places where we could remember that God's grace goes first. He wanted us to remember that God is with us in all of our ordinary, mundane moments, like eating, and he wanted us to reflect on that every time we come to the communion table as a community. And he wanted us to know that we are named and claimed by God every time we see someone new be baptized, and it's why he encouraged us to remember our own baptism.

For me, the beauty of the sacraments is that when we practice them in the service, we are reminded to look for the grace they represent in our daily lives. Here, at Royal Oak First, we can see God's grace at every Outreach on 7th Lunch table or every Holy COW dinner table. This Sunday we're going to take a moment to remember our baptism, to remember that God knows our name and calls us loved. And we will take this moment so when we leave here, and call someone by name, we are also remembering that they are loved and carry the image of God within them.

I look forward to seeing you this Sunday. Come to the water. Remember you are seen, known, and loved.

Grace and Peace,
